Project Background

For students to:

- develop as a reflective practitioner
- develop an understanding of different professional contexts in which they may work enhance their ability to contribute to them.
- cross fertilisation between disciplines,
- reflects the changing needs of the design industry and the move towards collaborative design.

INQUIRY COLLABORATION

One student view: *“don’t assume that just because the type [of project]
isn’t directly linked to interior design that it won’t be useful to you or your skill development”*

The importance of employability skills

The challenges of collaboration

Time for reflection and autonomy
