The Bench Project · Research Aims
- To test how making a film can tell detailed and nuanced stories about encounters, exclusion and wellbeing in outdoor spaces
- To record the ways in which different people use, and think about how they use, benches and other small places of outdoor gathering,
- To explore how the interactions between users of benches may be sociable or may cause problems,
- To find out how spending time outside is good for people, and,
- To understand ways in which public spaces and seating areas are controlled

On a day such as this, while roaming around this park, if you see a thousand faces then it is good for you. My ancestors used to say that.
– Chali Kumari, General Gordon Square, Woolwich

…the day is like a good day. It’s sunny, it’s a good day.
– Xanthe and Peri, Greenwich
