

Exploring the Contradictions of Sportswashing in Sports Fandom and Sports Research

BLACK, Jack <<http://orcid.org/0000-0002-1595-5083>>

Available from Sheffield Hallam University Research Archive (SHURA) at:

<https://shura.shu.ac.uk/34189/>

This document is the Accepted Version [AM]

Citation:

BLACK, Jack (2024). Exploring the Contradictions of Sportswashing in Sports Fandom and Sports Research. In: Media, Film and Communications Research Seminar, University of Otago, Dunedin, NZ, 9 Sep 2024 - 9 Sep 2024. Media, Film & Communication Programme. (Unpublished) [Conference or Workshop Item]

Copyright and re-use policy

See <http://shura.shu.ac.uk/information.html>

Exploring the Contradictions of Sportswashing in Sports Fandom and Sports Research

Jack Black, PhD, Associate Professor of Culture, Media, and Sport
Sheffield Hallam University, UK

Presented at:

“Media, Film and Communications Research Seminar,” University of Otago, Dunedin, NZ

Is it possible to remain a sports fan when prominent sports teams and events are utilized to “sportswash” human rights abuses and other controversies? Indeed, while there is an abundance of analyses critiquing different instances of sportswashing, the exploration of the role of sportswashing and its connection to the “sports fan” presents an essential and necessary area of investigation and theoretical inquiry. To unpick this dilemma, this article proposes the concept of “fetishistic disavowal” to help theorize the impact of sportswashing, as well as its relation to the sports fan and critical sports academic. This argues that, as spectators and fans of sport—and, moreover, as critical academics—we often acknowledge and accept that sport is used to perpetuate and even maintain a variety of social, economic, and political inequalities. While we are aware of such knowledge, we nonetheless remain fully capable of disavowing this very knowledge as an accepted part of sport. In this presentation, it will be argued that the fetishization of sport provides a suitable conduit for the fetishistic disavowal that sportswashing requires, with the concept offering a unique way of approaching sport’s inherent contradictions, while also theorizing how subjects relate to these contradictions as part of their sporting investment. Ultimately, this provides a theoretical lens through which analyses of sport, and its ethical significance, can be critiqued.

References

- Archer, A. 2021. “Fans, crimes and misdemeanors: Fandom and the ethics of love.” The Journal of Ethics 25: 543–566. <https://doi.org/10.1007/s10892-021-09371-5>
- BBC Sport. 2023. “Mohammed bin Salman: “I don’t care” about “sportswashing” accusations.” September 21, 2023. <https://www.bbc.co.uk/sport/66874723>
- Black, J., G. Sinclair, and C. Kearns. 2024. “The Fetishization of Sport: Exploring the Effects of Fetishistic Disavowal in Sportswashing.” Journal of Sport and Social Issues. <https://doi.org/10.1177/01937235241269906>
- Black, J., and J.S. Reynoso. 2024. “Just a game? Sport and psychoanalytic theory.” Psychoanalysis, Culture & Society 29, no. 2: 145–159. <https://doi.org/10.1057/s41282-024-00436-6>
- Coakley, J. 2015. “Assessing the sociology of sport: On cultural sensibilities and the great sport myth.” International Review for the Sociology of Sport 50, no. 4/5: 402–406. <https://doi.org/10.1177/1012690214538864>

- Fletcher, R. 2018. "Beyond the end of the world: Breaking attachment to a dying planet." In Psychoanalysis and the global, edited by I. Kapoor (pp. 48–69). University of Nebraska.
- Freud, S. 1927. "Fetishism." In The complete psychological works of Sigmund Freud (vol. XXI), edited by J. Strachey (pp. 147–157). Hogarth and the Institute of Psychoanalysis.
- Freud, S. 1938/1940. "Splitting of the ego in the process of defence." In The complete psychological works of Sigmund Freud (vol. XXIII), edited by J. Strachey (pp. 271–278). Hogarth and the Institute of Psychoanalysis.
- Fruh, K., A. Archer, and J. Wojtowicz, J. 2023. "Sportswashing: Complicity and corruption." Sport, Ethics and Philosophy 17, no. 1: 101–118.
<https://doi.org/10.1080/17511321.2022.2107697>
- Geal, R. 2023. "Football and fetishism." Psychoanalysis, Culture & Society 29, no. 2: 269–279. <https://doi.org/10.1057/s41282-023-00387-4>
- Gibson, O. 2015. "Fifa's Sepp Blatter says 2018 World Cup in Russia will stabilise region." March 20, 2015.
<https://www.theguardian.com/football/2015/mar/20/fifa-sepp-blatter-2018-world-cup-russia-peace-region>
- Jarvie, G. 2021. "Sport, soft power and cultural relations." Journal of Global Sport Management: 1–18. <https://doi.org/10.1080/24704067.2021.1952093>
- Kalman-Lamb, N. 2019. "Athletic labor and social reproduction." Journal of Sport and Social Issues 43, no. 6: 515–530.
<https://doi.org/10.1177/0193723519850879>
- McGowan, T. 2020b. "The mask of universality: Politics in the pandemic response." Crisis & Critique 7, no. 3: 229–243.
- McGowan, T. 2022a. Enjoyment right and left. Sublation Press/Sublation Media.
- Mulvenney, N. 2022. "FIFA chief accuses critics of Qatar of hypocrisy ahead of World Cup." November 19, 2022.
<https://www.reuters.com/lifestyle/sports/soccer-fifa-chief-accuses-critics-qatarhypocrisy-ahead-world-cup-2022-11-19/>
- Neroni, H. 2022. "Confederate signifiers in Vermont: Fetish objects and racist enjoyment." In Lacan and race, edited by S. George and D. Hook (pp. 51–64). Routledge.
- Rhodes, C. 2022. Woke capitalism: How corporate morality is sabotaging democracy. Bristol University Press.
- Volpe, S. 2023. "NUFC Fans Against Sportswashing protest Saudi Arabia football friendly at St James' Park." <https://www.chroniclelive.co.uk/news/north-east-news/saudi-sportswashingnewcastle-st-james-27682974>.
- Weintrobe, S. 2013. "Introduction." In Engaging with climate change: Psychoanalytic and interdisciplinary perspectives, edited by S. Weintrobe (pp. 1–15). Routledge.
- Zupančič, A. 2022. "Conspiracy theory without theory: On don't look up." e-flux Journal, December 16, 2022. <https://www.e-flux.com/notes/509069/conspiracy-theory-without-theory-on-don-t-look-up>

Bio

Jack Black is Associate Professor of Culture, Media, and Sport at Sheffield Hallam University, where he is also Research Lead for the Anti-Racism Research Group. An interdisciplinary researcher, working across the disciplines of psychoanalysis, media and communications, cultural studies, and sport, Jack's research focuses on topics related to race/racism, digital media, and political ecology. He is the author of The Psychosis of Race: A Lacanian Approach to Racism and Racialization (Routledge, 2023), Race, Racism and Political Correctness in Comedy – A Psychoanalytic Exploration (Routledge, 2021) and co-editor of Sport and Psychoanalysis: What Sport Reveals about Our Unconscious Desires, Fantasies, and Fears (Lexington Books, 2024) and Sport and Physical Activity in Catastrophic Environments (Routledge, 2023). Jack is Associate Editor for the International Journal of the Sociology of Leisure and Psychoanalysis, Culture and Society.